Conversazione sul marmo.

Il marmo è vivo. Non occorre essere un tecnico per rendersi conto che si è stratificato e sedimentato negli anni e continua a cambiare inarrestabilmente nel tempo. Quando poi è lavorato dalle sapienti mani dell'uomo, può prendere qualsiasi forma, frendo per raccontare la storia.

Intere civiltà ci sono arrivate attraverso i palazzi e le opere realizzate nei secoli, perché il marmo è un materiale fatto per restare, che unisce la bellezza alla funzionalità.

// Talking about marble. Marble is alive. You don't need to be an expert to understand that it is marked with layers of accumulated sediment compressed over millions of years. When crafted by experienced hands, marble can take on any shape and form; it can enclose history in its veins. We know about entire civilizations thanks to buildings and works of art made over the centuries because marble is a material that is made to last, combining beauty with functionality.

L'importanza delle radici.

L'espressione "made in Italy" continua a essere sinonimo di bellezza, di cultura e di qualità, valori universali che pervadono l'intero territorio, il modo di vivere di chi lo abita, e che trovano applicazione nelle migliori produzioni nazionali.

Il Veneto, in particolare, è una regione bellissima con paesaggi estremamente diversi tra loro: le splendide Dolomiti, le verdi e rigogliose colline, la fertile pianura Padana, il mare Adriatico e gli innumerevoli laghi primo fra tutti il Lago di Garda. Tradizionalmente il valore di questa regione è legato all'operosità dell'uomo e alla sua capacità di plasmare sapientemente le risorse territoriali.

// The importance of provenance. The term "made in Italy" continues to be synonymous with beauty, culture and quality – universal traits that are prominent throughout the territory and in the way people live; they are reflected in the nation's best creations. The Veneto, in particular, is a beautiful region with strongly contrasting landscapes: the magnificent Dolomites, lush, green hills, the fertile Padana plains, the Adriatic Sea, and numerous lakes, the foremost of which is Lake Garda. The value of this region is traditionally connected to man's industriousness and his capacity to skillfully transform the territory's resources.

Rinnovarsi fa bene.

Come l'acqua che si rigenera senza sosta, così la Michelessi ha continuato a rinnovarsi negli anni, puntando anche a minimizzare il suo impatto sull'ambiente.

L'azienda ha scelto di dotarsi di tecnologie che l'hanno resa autonoma dal punto di vista energetico, sia attraverso impianti di celle fotovoltaiche che attraverso impianti di infiltrazione per il riutilizzo continuo dell'acqua destinata a riscaldamento e raffrescamento. Si è trattato di una scelta di responsabilità, ma rappresenta un approccio più vasto che coniuga produzione efficiente e rispetto per il pianeta.

// Modernization is good. Like water that regenerates itself without end, Michelessi has continued to modernize over the years, aiming – among other things – to minimize its impact on the environment.

The company has chosen to adopt technological advances such as photovoltaic systems and a heating and cooling system that exploits geothermal energy, allowing Michelessi to independently meet its energy needs. This demonstrates Michelessi's commitment to responsible solutions and represents a broader vision that combines production efficiency and a deep respect for our planet's limited resources.

Poiana Maggiore, Vicenza
Arch. Andrea Palladio, 1549

1 / Villa Poiana

Il cavaliere Bonifacio Poiana, commissiona a Palladio la costruzione di una nuova residenza sulla via per Montagnana, di fronte al castello di famiglia. Palladio realizza una fabbrica caratterizzata da una originale serliana in facciata ispirata ai modelli di Donato Bramante come il Ninfeo di Genazzano. Tra il 1555 e il 1560 negli interni lavorano il plastificatore Bartolomeo Ridolfi e i frescanti Bernardino India, Anselmo Canera e Giambattista Zelotti.

Knight and soldier Bonifacio Poiana commissioned Palladio to build a new residence on the way to the town of Montagnana, in front of the family's castle. Palladio designed a building characterized by a unique Serliana on the façade inspired by Donato Bramante's Nymphaeum in Genazzano. The sculptor Bartolomeo Ridolfi and the painters Bernardino India, Anselmo Canera and Giambattista Zelotti executed the internal decorations between 1555 and 1560.

Montecchio Maggiore, Vicenza
Arch. Giorgio Massari, 1735-1740

2 / Villa Cordellina Lombardi

Eretta per volontà dell'avvocato Carlo Cordellina, la villa fu progettata dall'architetto veneziano Giorgio Massari, che si ispirò dichiaratamente a moduli palladiani. I lavori di costruzione durarono dal 1735 al 1742, anno in cui il Massari preparò il progetto per le barchesse, portate a termine verso il 1760. Al progetto collaborò anche l'architetto Francesco Muttoni.

Venetian architect Giorgio Massari designed the villa for the prominent jurist Carlo Cordellina. The work reflects a marked familiarity with Palladian architecture. Primary construction work lasted from 1735 to 1742 – year in which Massari designed the barchesse – and continued until 1760. Architect Francesco Muttoni also collaborated on the project.
